PREFACE.

A finding list of the English prose fiction in the old "Lower Hall" of the Public Library was issued in 1893. It purported to contain the titles of all English and American prose fiction in that department up to the time of issue. The present list contains the titles of all works of this class added to the Lower Hall collection since the publication of the above mentioned catalogue. It contains also titles of certain books which were in the Library prior to 1893, but were omitted from the 1893 list. On the removal of the Library to the present building the old "Lower Hall" collection was placed in what is known as Stack 4. The English Prose Fiction List of 1893 and the present supplement represent therefore the English prose fiction in Stack 4 and thus all such books in the Library for ordinary circulation. For accessions, subsequent to the issue of the present list, the Monthly Bulletins beginning with October, 1897, should be consulted. The Bulletins are for free distribution; the 1893 list is sold for ten cents, and the present Supplement for five cents. These publications may be had at the Central Library and at all the Branches.
